TUGBOAT 'BETTYE' BURNS

Owned by Otis Barge Line Of Logtown—Enroute to New Orleans.

Last Sunday night the Diesel tugboat "Bettye" owned by the Otis Barge Line at Logtown caught fire and sunk in Mississippi River about 15 miles below Baton Rouge. All members of the crew escaped injury.

The boat was en route from Baton Rouge to New Orleans with a steel barge containing about 100,000 gallons of kerosene and Diesel oil in tow. Fire was discovered in the light plant and in spite of the efforts of the crew it was soon beyond control and the crew had to abandon the boat. They boarded the oil-barge and cut the tow lines, thereby saving the barge and its cargo.

The boat burned to the water's edge and sunk near the banks of the river. At this writing it is not known whether it can be salvaged, but sounding operations are under way to locate the wreck and make attempts to refloat it.

NOW IS THE TIME FOR PLANTING BULBS.

Bulbs that can be successfully grown in this part of the country should be considered now and you should decide which kind you will plant.

The ground should be cool before bulbs are planted, except for callily bulbs. Bulbs procured in September or cold storage until late October or November when the earth will be ready for them, as planting the bulbs in hot soil before then tend to burn them.

For the white or yellow narcissus which are so abundant hereabouts, these can be left in the beds from year to year simply allowing the leaves to die down to the stem and the bulbs are then safe, being nourished by the dying leaves. However, when planting these bulbs for the first time, plant in rich soil combined with stable manure and river sand.

Tulip bulbs should be kept in cold storage and planted in December, placing in deep enough a hole to contain first a handful of sand, then the bulbs, then one inch of sand and five inches of soil.

Other flowering bulbs are Iris, Hyacinths, Anemones and ranunculus and can be planted in November or December.

Oxalis, scillas and leucocorymb and freesias are obtainable in many colors and are nice to be planted in pots or placed in bowls partially filled with small stones and with bulbs covered partly by water. As it takes about three months for these bulbs to bloom, in order to have Christmas plants, it will be necessary to plant now.

Farmers Urged To Produce All Feed Possible on Farms.

With a short corn crop, a short cotton crop, and low prices for both cotton and cottonseed, it is imperative that farmers produce all of the feed possible on the farm this winter and next spring.

To meet the great need for farm-grown feeds county agents are recommending that farmers plant some of their land in oats this fall.

Oats is one of the surest feed crops farmers can grow. Oats occupy the land during the winter months, protect the soil from erosion, provide some grazing, and then yield a good crop of grain next spring.

Most farmers can grow oats successfully if they will use right practices. L. J. Jones, extension agronomist, says oats should be planted early—the latter part of September to middle of October—to enable the plants to get well rooted before winter freezes come.

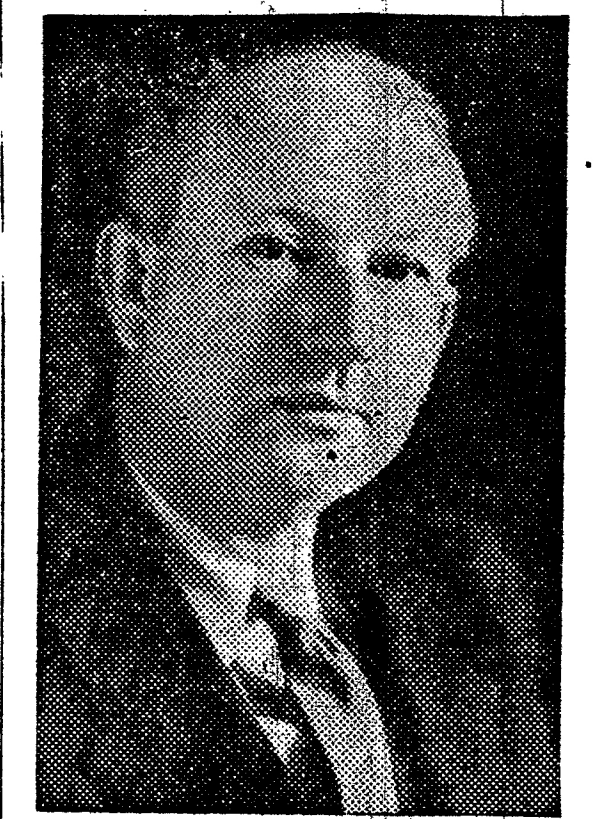

Sow plenty of seed—2 to 3 bushels per acre. Treat the seed for smut. It is best to drill the seed.

Plant adapted varieties. Jones recommends the Nortex, Fulghum, Ferguson, Fulgrain and Hastings. Top dress the oats the latter part of February or early March with 100 to 200 pounds of readily available nitrogen fertilizer.

2,000 Cotton Pickers Placed During Past Weeks

Jackson, Miss., Sept. 7.—Placement of 900 cotton pickers was verified last week by the special Cotton Picking Unit of the Mississippi State Employment Service at Greenville, bringing the total number of pickers placed during the past few weeks to approximately 2,000. Robert L. Hinds, MSSE Field Supervisor in charge of the unit, reported today.

Over 1,000 pickers were referred to planters in the Delta area last week by the unit, which is located in the Greenville District office of the service, but reports on some of them had been received by the close of business Saturday. The special division was set up in the Delta to direct the transfer of the workers from other sections of Mississippi who are being used to pick the Delta's large crop this season.

A heavy hailstorm, which fell late Wednesday afternoon, destroyed several thousand acres of cotton in Sunflower, Sharkey, Washington, and Issaquena counties and reduced considerably the demand for pickers in these particular areas. However, as the crop continues to open daily it is expected that the heavy demand for workers in the fields will continue for several more weeks, and the special cotton picking unit will operate at least during the month of September.

FIRST OIL WELL FOR MISSISSIPPI

Further Drilling Slated at Early Date Near Yazoo City.

Yazoo City, Miss., Sept. 5.—On the farm of Green Crowder Woodruff, 12 miles south of here, history was made today when Mississippi's first commercial oil well was placed into production.

After the 4500-foot producer washed itself out, the first flow of crude from the Union Producing Company's Woodruff No. 1 came in before daybreak. Subsequently it gushed 312 barrels through a quarter-inch choke.

Oil authorities that assembled for the test estimated the well would produce 3000 barrels daily if it were permitted to run "wide open."

A 32.8 gravity crude was discovered in a 10-foot pay sand from a depth of 4540 to 4550, according to John S. Ivy, vice-president of the company in charge of exploration and development.

As leasing continued in this section at a fever pitch, plans were being made immediately to bore an offset well on the block, officials said. Informed sources said a major oil company plans to start a well in the same area within a few weeks.

The test of the initial well showed 20 per cent gas, 10 per cent naphtha, 5 per cent kerosene, 17 per cent asphalt and 48 per cent gasoline, Mr. Ivy said. After the gauging operation, Mr. Ivy said, the well was not entirely clear, and expressed the hope that it would make a better showing when the washing operation is completed within the next couple of days.

State Board of Health Gives Figures and Facts on Disease Increase-Decease

Accomplishments of the Mississippi State Board of Health are revealed in 1938 figures just completed by the Division of Vital Statistics, Dr. R. N. Whitfield, director of this division, points out. Since 1916 deaths from typhoid fever have dropped from 668 to 21, a decrease of almost 100 per cent. Tuberculosis deaths have declined 60 per cent in 21 years, and diphtheria deaths 86 per cent in 18 years. Doctor Whitfield says that figures also tell the true story of malaria, "the widespread malady which gives us the black flag in other parts." In 1915, 1,500 deaths occurred from malaria. Last year there were 268 deaths from this disease—a reduction of 81½ per cent.

Calling the facts presented by figures on file at the State Board of Health "truly marvelous," the statistician points out that "figures don't lie, though sometimes liars figure."

"In Mississippi," he says, "folks want to know the facts in simple language and plain statistics. They want to know today's birth rate or today's death rate as compared to previous years. They want to know whether or not the dangerous communicable diseases are yielding to the constant work conducted against them. Our people want us to disprove erroneous reports from other parts concerning the health conditions of the state. They want facts." Saying that the state would have been "helpless without the vital statistics compiled by the Board of Health," Doctor Whitfield explains that these figures have saved the state many times from outside misrepresentations, especially of health conditions.

Another slant on Board of Health statistics reveals a steady increase in deaths from conditions "beyond the present control of public health measures." Doctor Whitfield says that heart disease deaths in Mississippi have doubled during the past 18 years and that deaths from cancer are increasing each year. These increases point out the need for work in the field of the diseases of old age, Doctor Whitfield explains and says that the value of "honest figures" in guiding public health work is immeasurable.

Home-Grown Hardwoods Cut The Lumber Bill

Lumber from many of the trees that grow in farm woodlands—ash, elm, beech, birch, black locust, red oak, hickory, and maples—is for certain purposes as good or sometimes better than most of the standard lumber stocks, says Monty Payne, extension forester at Mississippi State College.

Most of these hardwoods are harder to cut, shape, and nail than pine and other coniferous lumber, but if used for the purposes to which they are well adapted they may save much of the expense for farm building and repair. In many areas it is practical for farmers either to haul logs to a sawmill or have the logs worked up at home by a custom sawyer with a portable mill, and thus obtain a supply of rough lumber. Cutting and hauling can usually be managed in seasons when farm work is slack.

Payne suggests that farmers interested in the possibilities of lumber from home-grown trees will find useful Farmers' Bulletin 1756, "Selection of Lumber," which lists the wood varieties suitable for various purposes and tabulates the special qualities of most of the standard woods and also of woods rarely on the market but often available on farms.

Lumber from either of the locusts—black locust or honey locust—ranks low in ease of working but high or intermediate in all the rest of the 20 properties that are tabulated. Black locust is probably most valuable for fence posts and is widely used, but trees larger than desirable for posts may prove an excellent source of cheap and serviceable lumber.

Farmers' Bulletin 1756 on selection of lumber may be obtained, says Payne, from the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

FREE SCHOOL LUNCHES.

DURING the last school year something like 800,000 children in more than 14,000 schools in low-income areas received free lunches, largely through donations of surplus commodities by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation.

This year, it is announced, the program will be greatly extended. It is hoped that, by the end of the coming school year, free lunches will be available for not less than 5,000,000 children. School and public health officials declare that the lunches last year resulted in better health, with improved attendance and scholarship records for the undernourished children who got the free lunches.

There are critics who denounce such activities on the part of the Federal government. They would, apparently, prefer to see the surplus food commodities rot in storage than be utilized, through federal initiative, in the development of growing children.

Everybody knows that in the United States there is, as there has been for years, a large surplus of food commodities. They hang over the market, depressing the prices that growers receive, and disrupting orderly processes of trade. It is far better, we think, to use these commodities to give undernourished children an opportunity to grow strong bodies and we are for any method that leads to such a result.

It has been an amazing fact that in our depression of plenty there have been men, women and children in the United States who have gone hungry. So far as the men are concerned we might be willing to let them feed themselves but as for the women and children, and particularly the children, we assert that government, whether State or Federal has a direct obligation to see that their health does not suffer through improper and inadequate food.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK.

CALLING all citizens—for Fire Prevention Week, which is to be observed this year from October 8 to 14.

Fire Prevention Week marks a definite, intensive effort to save your life and your property from the ravages of fire. It is an intensely personal thing, which comes straight home to all of us.

Insurance organizations, fire departments, public officials, newspapers, the radio, civic clubs and organizations—all will work cooperatively together to make the week a success. They are working for you, and their hope is to enlist your support and interest. They will offer you every opportunity to learn about fire—its causes, the magnitude of its destruction, the means of controlling, fighting, and preventing it. There is nothing dull about these lessons—to the contrary, they are intensely dramatic and interesting.

And they are much more than that. When you learn how to inspect your home for hazards, and apply what you learn, it may be the means of saving that home from ruin. Vastly more important, it may be the means of saving the lives of your family from one of the most horrible of deaths. Nothing pays greater dividends than fire prevention.

So do your part when Fire Prevention Week comes. Observe it with an open, inquiring mind. And when the Week is over, remember what you have learned, and keep on using your knowledge. One of the things this country needs most is a nationally observed "Fire Prevention Year."

REPORT ON UNEMPLOYMENT.

ACCORDING to the Mississippi Unemployment Compensation Commission state-wide employment conditions, which showed marked improvement in June, fell off in practically all sections of the state during the month of July, according to reports received from the managers of the various Mississippi State Employment Service offices. Much of the increased unemployment resulted from seasonal factors such as the laying-off of crops and the temporary closing of a number of cotton oil mills. Eleven new firms employing 90 people opened for business; one large manufacturer of forest products resumed operations, giving work to 250; six firms expanded, adding 120 new employees; new construction, both private and public, accounted for an increase of more than 2000 in the number of jobs; and tourist trade on the coast picked up, adding 300 additional workers. On the other hand, 34 concerns closed down, decreasing the number of jobs by 2700; completed and temporarily suspended construction accounted for a further decrease of 1000; bad weather conditions in certain sections retarded road construction and depressed retail trade; and a decline in marine shipping on the Coast threw 200 longshoremen out of work. A bumper crop is anticipated in the Delta, while farming conditions are unusually poor in the Northern and Northeastern sections. The Central section reports crop conditions to be, approximately normal, but prospects in the Southern region are not very good.

Congress has appropriated $300,000 for operation in Bankhead-Jones law for the development of farm woodlands through research, education, demonstrations and the production of forest planting stock. Several thousand dollars of this amount will be made available to Mississippi as soon as the required forestry work plan is completed and if the State Forestry Commission and the State Extension Service can find funds to match the Federal allotment.

NORMAL CHILDREN HAVE PROBLEMS.

FORTUNATELY for the children of Bay St. Louis, there seems to be little occasion for any Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, if we understand the word cruelty in its usual sense.

The day of barbaric and unusual punishment has passed for most children in this nation, although, occasionally one hears of incidents of brutality towards children that are shocking to all of us. However, parents do not complete their obligations to children when they refrain from inhuman action toward them. Nor do they comply with their responsibility when they provide reasonable shelter, clothing and a hit-or-miss amount of food.

There is much for all of us to learn in child nutrition and child psychology, in understanding the normal development and growth of little bodies and the appreciation of the importance of providing tiny souls with ideas and aims that will make their lives fuller and perhaps more glorious.

We purposely do not call attention to such evils as child labor, the mishandling of children who clash with the law, the care of foundlings or the special treatment required for the physically afflicted and feeble-minded. Rather do we refer to the normal child in the average family where father and mother, busy with their own cares and problems, are apt to pass up those that seriously affect the lives of their little boys and girls.

Given average physical and mental inheritances, such as normal birth, there is no reason why proper parental care should not develop the average baby into an adult, fitted to assume a place in the social and industrial life of the nation. There is no reason for a normal baby not to have a normal growth, excepting sometimes, the inattention and neglect of parents, who should know better.

The visibly afflicted child attracts the attention necessary to secure needed correction of its disabilities. But, very often, the apparent healthy and normal child requires some special attention which it fails to receive, resulting in retarded development and growth for that child, giving an outlook that is abnormal in some degree and adversely affecting the entire life of the individual.

THE WORLD'S FAIR AND THE AMERICAN SYSTEM.

THIS year America is being treated to two magnificent world's fairs at New York and San Francisco. Millions of citizens are visiting them. And to the thoughtful visitor, these fairs must appear as a great deal more than colorful and exciting shows—they are living testimonials to our traditional economic system based on the freest possible play of individual initiative and enterprise.

At the great industrial exhibits at the fairs you will see vividly presented the achievements which are responsible for American standard of living, the highest by far in the entire world. Out of the work of millions of hands and brains working in a free society, has come this epochal progress. Electric power, radio, railroad, automobile, clothing—every exhibit is a monument to the American system—private enterprise.

It is fitting that the two fairs should be in operation at this time. For, to an extent never before known in our history, this American system of ours has been under attack. The greatest achievements of private industry have been minimized. The very foundation stones of democracy have been undermined. Individualism has been held up to scorn and ridicule. Business has been reviled. Back of this campaign against the American system is a determined attempt to put in its place a system based upon some foreign "ism."

Well, one can hardly believe the American people will fall for this. A century and a half ago we were among the least of the powers—today we are the greatest power on earth. That unprecedented progress has come from private enterprise—from the work of free men, engaged in free undertakings. It is all shown magnificently at the fairs. And it is shown, too, all around you, wherever you live—in the stores, the industries, the service companies in your town or city. All of America is a great and continuous fair, exhibiting proudly the fruits of the American system.

PROGRESS WITHOUT EXPENSE.

COMMUNITY progress is not always a matter of expense.

In flush times we easily got the habit of appraising a civic undertaking's worth by the amount of money it cost. Nothing could be more foolish.

Civilization is a question of living. Whatever makes life more pleasant, convenient and cultured is a distinct advantage to the people of any city. There are many social activities that could be developed that would add much to our community life without adding to the cost of our daily existence.

Civic leaders, in looking for something to do to improve our city should not overlook the boys and girls who are growing up in our midst. To add to the joy of their young lives is a worthy object. It can be done without involving great expenditures if a score or more adults will give some of their time to the purpose.

There are undoubtedly additional facilities to be developed for the benefit of adults. These do not have to cost money. Numerous clubs, associations, and organizations, for cultural, educational, spiritual purposes, are not represented here. To develop and round out the lives of some of our adult citizens they should be.

If the present crisis could force us to look to our own inherent capacities for some of the things we have been accustomed to buy that people of Bay St. Louis might find out that they have rare talent in their midst and unsuspected powers among many lines.

War news has just about pushed other news out of the newspapers but this doesn't mean that there was no other news.

Highway fatalities are picking up. During the last two months for which figures are available the casualty rate moved upward, reversing a trend of many months. This ought to remind you to be careful!

Hollywood Notes.

PAT O'BRIEN has been borrowed from his studio for a leading role in "Send Another Coffin." Ruth Terry, an 18-year-old newcomer from Ireland, will have the feminine lead.

Geraldine Fitzgerald has a full schedule outlined for the coming season. On her roster are "Captain Hornblower," "The Sea Hawk," "Undeground," "Devotion," "Lost Beauty," and "Forgive Us Our Trespasses."

Lloyd Nolan, who left Paramount because of a disagreement has been assigned by 20th Century Fox to the leading role in "The Man Who Wouldn't Talk."

Warren Williams will have the role of Jefferson Carteret in the picture version of Clarence Buddington Kelland's "Arizona."

Thomas Mitchell will play the part of the father in "Swiss Family Robinson." The cast is practically completed now with Edna Best as the mother and Freddie Bartholomew, Terry Kilburn and Tim Holt as the children.

Virginia Weidler and Gene Reynolds have been assigned as leads in "Looking After Sandy," adapted from Margaret Turnbull's story. Lois Wilson may be the mother.

Barbara O'Neill, who played the insane wife in "When Tomorrow Comes," has signed a five-year contract with Universal.

Florence Bates, a fifty-year-old, will make her screen debut as Mrs. Van Hopper in "Rebecca."

Eddie Cantor will star in "Forty Little Mothers." The picture will be adapted from the French story of the same title. It is about a school teacher who finds himself with an infant on his hands.

Warners is planning the present a panorama of Broadway of the last century in "The Life of Tony Pastor." Edward G. Robinson will have the title role.

Jean Cagney, twenty-year-old sister of James Cagney, has been given a contract by Paramount. She will have a leading role in "Campus Wives."

Anita Louise and Edward Ellis have been assigned to "Abraham Lincoln Boggs."

Alice Faye and her husband, Tony Martin have been spending a short vacation.

After five years, Margaret Lindsay has taken her name off the Warner Brothers' payroll. Some folks say she did this to make the way to stardom easier for her 18-year-old sister, Jane Gilbert, who works for the same studio.

Linda Darnell, who made her movie debut in "Hotel for Women," is rescheduled as a "natural" by her studio. With very little stage experience, she seems definitely on the way to stardom after her first role in pictures. She is now playing a part in "Drums Along the Mohawk."

Zazu Pitts plays a serious role for the first time in her picture career in "Nurse Edith Cavell."

Caudette Colbert's French poodle caused a very expensive scene to be re-shot on the "Drums Along the Mohawk" set. Just as a terrifying redskin grasped Claudette by the hair the poodle got him by the ankle.

General Abe named Japanese Premier; conciliation with Britain and America possible.

UNEMPLOYMENT.

(Port Gibson Reveille)

PERIODICALLY some one endeavors to find the cause for so much unemployment in this country.

The machinery age is given as the prime factor, but the great increase in number of women employed, women whose husbands are also engaged in work—is accredited with standing second as a factor.

But when one analyzes figures, he begins to think that strikes and indifference to work have as much to do with the millions of men being unemployed here as either of the above causes.

We are told that during the decade between 1880 and 1890 there were 208,000 patents issued by the U. S. Patent office, while during the decade between 1920 and 1930 there were 421,004 patents issued, or an increase of more than one hundred per cent. This, of course, indicates a wonderful increase in the number of inventions, most of which were labor-saving devices.

But, in 1910 there were only 7,000 vocations furnishing employment, while in 1930 there were 27,000 vocations, an increase of nearly four hundred per cent.

This indicates that practically every invention opened new enterprises and furnished added employment, rather than decreased avenues whereby people might find gainful work.

It is true, that there is not the opportunity for unskilled laborers there used to be, but the trained hand and mind is in greater demand today than ever before in the history of the country.

It is a well known fact that had the federal government not begun its Santa Claus work, at least half of the present unemployed would be at work.

Thus the unemployment problem appears to be more of a mental rather than a physical problem.

Waveland Activities

Personal and General News Notes of the Week From Sister City and Vicinity.

PROF. and Mrs. M. L. Richardson were here for the day Sunday with Mrs. Slade.

Mr. C. C. Levy of Baton Rouge spent Labor Day with his cousin, Marcel Bourgeois.

Mrs. Stephen Leech and son are here for a week with Mrs. Hazel Lamar.

Mr. Walter Carver and Eugene LaFontaine have gone to the city where they will work for a while.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Lawton returned this week from an extended trip through the West and Alaska.

Mr. Marcus Kohn is spending the week-end here after a trip to New York to the World's Fair.

Mr. George Ferchaud, Jr., is entertaining some friends at a house party this week-end.

Miss Dot Hammer is making preparations to leave Saturday for Baton Rouge where she will enroll at L. S. U.

The Misses Vera Mae and Dorothy Savannah are visiting Mrs. Wm. Goelzenleuchter.

"Sonny" Emmett having recuperated from a tonsil operation is spending a few days here prior to returning to Pittsburg, Pennsylvania with his sister, Martha Emmett.

Malvin Ladner and Charlie Carver went to the city for a visit, and while there they were lost. A policeman had to take them to their aunt's home.

Mr. Joe Berner and Mr. Alphonse Bourgeois and their families had a joyous Labor Day week end at Mr. Berner's summer home.

Waveland was over-crowded for Labor Day, crammed with pleasures and a good time for everybody. Many of the summer residents were forced to depart in order to enter the little folks at school.

Waveland School opened Tuesday morning with a large attendance. It is rumored that the town officials are planning to operate the school bus. What welcome news this will be to every little fellow.

Our good friend Ed P. Ortle will be host for the day Saturday the 9th from 11 a. m. to 7 p. m., at his home at Clermont. Everybody in Hancock County is invited to be with him and his family at a fish fry and shrimp boil. Food will be served continuously and there will be music and dancing all day. No charge, everything is free.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rahn and their daughter, Audrey, were guests of Marie Sherwood at her camp for Labor Day weekend. The camp fires and flares could be observed thru the tall pines and cast a soft glow on the Khaki canvas tents making an alluring picture. In the distance could be heard harmonized camp songs to the accompaniment of Herman's guitar. Their chief activity was a wicker roast Sunday night.

Mr. Ed P. Ortle feels that words are inadequate to fully express his gratitude to his many friends for their earnest and untiring efforts that resulted in his election for supervisor of Beat 5. They accomplished their purpose and have implicit faith in his ability to represent them. With his requisites, they feel and hope that his term of office will be one of continued success.

Mr. George Reuss a long time summer resident here passed on last Friday at his home at the age of

"SUSANNAH OF THE MOUNTIES" ABLAZE WITH ADVENTURE

Of The Northwest—Shirley Temple Starred in Role With Great Cast—At A. & G. Sun-Mon.

A thousand savage redmen sweep down on the Mounties, lonely outpost! A gallant garrison fights against overwhelming odds! A lone woman finds love amid peril on a primitive frontier!

Believe it or not—this is what happens in Shirley Temple's latest 20th Century-Fox picture, "Susannah of the Mounties!" The famous story of the old Northwest is a thrilling vehicle for the Number One star and it was selected by Production Chief Darryl F. Zanuck as a counterpoint to the fantasy of her last hit, "The Little Princess."

Garbed in calico and buckskin, Shirley Temple's is a real dramatic role different from anything she has done previously on the screen. Randolph Scott and Margaret Lockwood, the lovely star of "The Lady Vanishes," are featured in the romantic leads, while others in the large cast are Martin Good Rider, 13-year-old Blackfeet discovery who makes his debut in the film, J. Farrell MacDonald, Maurice Moscovitch, Moroni Olsen, Victor Jory and Lester Matthews.

William A. Steir directed "Susannah of the Mounties," which opens at the A. & G. Theater, Sunday and Monday. Shirley, the sole survivor of an Indian massacre, is adopted by Randolph Scott of the Mounties. The famous Police are trying to protect the construction of the great new railway from interference by the Indians.

Swett teaches the child a wonderful lesson in courage which bears her bravely through days of terrible danger. Kenneth Macgowan served as associate producer for the screen play written by Robert Ellis and Helen Logan, from the story by Fidel La Barba and Walter Ferris, based on the book by Muriel Denison.

CHADDY'S CHATS FROM HOLLYWOOD

JUST as royalty sets the etiquette of its court and ladies in waiting follow the lead of their queen so do the 'movie stars' satellites need to conform to the pace of their employees. Thus, when Martha Raye had the whim to go blonde for the filming of "1000 A Touchdown," it meant that her stand-in, Jeanette Rudy, must and did follow suit. Miss Rudy looked so well in her newly peroxide hair—so that three of her girl friends followed suit, and it brought quite a boom to the neighborhood beauty parlor. This all, as might be imagined had its some-what ludicrous aftermath. Martha's maid surveyed Martha's blonde locks in some perplexity. "Miss Martha, honey," she said, "does youall want me to go blonde, too?"

When Fred MacMurray found that he must appear to shave himself repeatedly through many successive takes of domestic scene for "Remember the Night," he prevailed upon the property man to contrive a safety razor blade of cardboard.

Preview audiences who saw Brian Donley's notable job as the villainous Sgt. Markoff with Gary Cooper in the new William A. Wallman production of "Beau Geste," are already whooping Donley to receive an Academy award for best supporting player of the year. But there's a lag until a picture has been shown many places before movie fans in general accept a new-found notable for what he is. Thus Donley can still emerge from Paramount's main studio gate without exciting the attention that comes to other players longer established on the star rungs of the ladder. Thus too Donley left the coffee shop across the street and only three of the two dozen autograph hunters bestirred themselves. Two stood at a distance while one, brasher than the others, became their spokesman. "Any celebrities inside there now, Mister?" he asked. Donley pondered the question. His mind's eye toward the restaurant recalled John Howard, graduate cum laude of Cleveland's Western Reserve university, sitting at the counter having a sandwich and coffee as he studied his picture script. "Nope," Donley replied. "Except one, that is, and he can't write." Within the fortnight the glamorous Isa Miranda will take a bath for the entertainment of future aisle seat holders. Skilled artisans are already constructing an elegant DeMille sort of tub which positively will outdo the one Joan Crawford uses, in "The Women," and 10 pounds of expensive bath salts have been ordered. Miss Miranda's bath will take place for a scene in her current film, "Diamonds Are Dangerous." In which she co-stars with George Brent. It follows her release from a year in jail in Capetown, Africa. Well no wonder.

Smart Fashions Advocated By the Stars:

Fashion's fancy in the film city has taken to adapting old fashioned jewelry into flamboyant ornaments as a basis for first fall costumes. Silver bangles, china studs, crystal flower holders and other charming mementos are being attractively utilized by such stars as Jean Arthur, Barbara Stanwyck and Penny Singleton.

Favoring very old East Indian silver bangle jewelry. Jean Arthur has taken a silver finge necklace with bangle in graduated length from two to four inches, strung it on a turquoise blue velvet ribbon and tied it around the high neckline of a black sheer afternoon frock. The earrings that accompany the set decorate the exact front of the matching black wrapped turban and hang down Indian fashion in the center of her forehead.

"The tailored woman," Barbara Stanwyck collects 18th century hand-painted china studs. These are painted in a pastel floral design with all edging and close the double breasted front closing of her new softly tailored suit coat.

Another novel idea is incorporating old fashioned jewelry with modern costumes is introduced by Penny Singleton. She found a charming old-fashioned cut crystal flower holder which she pins in the lapel of her plum colored wool dress-maker suit. She then tucks in two miniature pastel ostrich plumes which jauntily fashion an unusual lapel bouquet. A bit unusual, but quite dashing!

Here's What We Promised

... "to help Mississippi law enforcement officials to 'clean up or close up' those scattered retail beer outlets which permit illegal practices or anti-social abuses to hide behind the respectability of a legal beer permit."

Here's What We Are Doing

... on petition and evidence gathered by our Committee, the State Tax Commission, on August 31, 1939 revoked the permits of two Hinds County establishments where illegal practices had been allowed to hide behind the sales of beer.

This action is the first taken in the Committee's aggressive program for law enforcement... a program which merits the support of every conscientious, clear-thinking Mississippian. You can give support to this program by patronizing only retail beer outlets which are conducted in accord with the law and public sentiment in your community.

Select Good Corn Seed for Best Results.

Careful selection of seed corn in the field this fall is one of the surest way of increasing the yield of next year's crop, according to the county agent, who is urging the farmers of Hancock county, to select their seed corn at harvest time.

At corn planting time there is always a scarcity of good seed corn. Some farmers however, have the good habit of selecting from the field each fall a full supply of seed.

Corn specialists of the Federal Bureau of Plant Industry say the best method of seed selection of open-pollinated varieties for general farm use is mass selection in the field. The seed corn should be picked as soon as the crop is matured, promptly dried and stored in cool, dry places, and protected from damage by grain moths, weevil and mice.

Pointers on selecting seed ears from desirable plants, how to dry the seed corn after it is picked, and proper methods of storage are discussed in Farmers' Bulletin No. 1822, of the United States Department of Agriculture. Available copies may be had free by writing to the office of Information, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

ANTI-TANK GUN

An Army anti-tank gun, demonstrated to veterans of the Civil War at Pittsburgh, was described by Lt. Eli Stevens as the world's best anti-tank weapon. He says the gun has the highest muzzle velocity of any anti-tank weapon, 2,600 feet per second; that it will shoot seven miles with accuracy and that its projectiles will penetrate two-inch armor or a two-foot thick concrete wall at 1600 yards.

Sept. 6, 1939.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Since the election is over and everything is in peace and quiet I would like to take this method of expressing my appreciation, to you for the vote given me in the Second Primary. While I admit that every break seemed to be against me. Yet I have no complaint to register against anyone who saw fit to vote for my opponent. I used no undue methods to secure votes, leaving the election simply to the judgment of those whom I had served, and I have every reason to believe that it was not my service but unethical politics that brought about the change. I used no monies beyond that which the Corrupt Practice Act permitted me to use. In fact I did not use the limit which was $500 dollars, under the law.

I did not attempt to deceive the people by claiming that I had been threatened, if I did not retire from the race, a thing unheard of in State or County politics. I was threatened in person which made me laugh. Had I made such a claim I am sure that the thinking people would not have believed me.

I never made any promises to anyone, because promises are hard to fill. And I never proposed to anyone that I would give them a resignation with a sworn statement that I would vote for anything they asked for, if they would support me. If anyone would like to question me about this statement I would be glad to discuss it with them, giving them the names of those to whom the proposition was made.

If in the remainder of my term or in my private life I can be of service to you—command me. I may never be in politics again and yet I may be within the near future—should I ever enter the political ring again I ask you only to weigh my services with those of other public servants, my educational qualifications and the private courtesies I have shown to those in need.

Yours for service,

T. ED KELLAR

Extends Thanks To All

Words cannot express my appreciation and gratitude towards my many friends for their wonderful, ceaseless efforts they displayed in electing me Supervisor—Beat 5.

Combining their strength, in their purpose that I represent the people on the Board, they accomplished their feat only through determination and hard work. In the capacity of Supervisor, I will serve to the extent of my ability; determined, at all times, to fulfill the trust placed in me.

So again extending to all, in deepest sincerity, my heartiest thanks and appreciation, I beg to remain
